MATCH talks to Scunthorpe

WEARING A C

— my mom

● IAN BOTHAM — in action for England's Test team.

Ian Botham made his Football League debut for Fourth Division Scunthorpe United against Bournemouth earlier this year.

He will rejoin Scunthorpe when his commitments with Somerset and England are complete until he goes off to the West Indies in January for the winter Test series.

IAN BOTHAM has made his name as a great Test cricketer — an allrounder with over 1,500 runs and 152 wickets to his credit from just 30 Test matches.

But Ian is also a great lover of soccer. He plays for Scunthorpe — and is a keen supporter of Chelsea.

In an exclusive interview with Match, he talked about the night last season he was invited to wear a Chelsea shirt in Ron Harris's Testimonial.

He said: "That was something. It is a feeling I can't really describe.

"I've been able to see a lot of the world and meet a lot of top people.

"But actually being on that Chelsea pitch in the company of Ron, Peter Osgood, "Butch" Wilkins — who I think could be an England skipper of the future — and Jimmy Greaves, that was unrepeatably magic."

CRYSTAL PALACE — OR LORDS?

MATCH WEEKLY: You had the chance to take up Soccer professionally. Why didn't you?
IAN BOTHAM: Quite simple. I always thought I could play for England at cricket.
I doubted whether I could at Soccer. So, when it came to a toss-up between Crystal Palace and Lords, it had to be Lords. That's not being big-headed. That's being realistic or, if you like, having confidence in my own ability.

Spotted by Bert Head

M.W. But Lords and Crystal Palace are in London. You are up in Yeovil, in Somerset. What was the connection?

I.B. I'd been watched by Somerset County Cricket Club since I was 12.

While I was waiting for a vacancy there I received an offer from Lords to join the MCC staff for a couple of years and I accepted.

All this was happening in the early seventies when Palace were managed by Bert Head.

Now Bert was a West Countryman from Midsomer Norton in Somerset, and knew all about the local youngsters who showed some sort of talent.

My start in soccer

M.W. How had you started football?

I.B. The usual way, at school, and then youth club in Yeovil.

From there I was playing for Ilchester in the Western League when I was invited by Bert Head for a trial with Crystal Palace.

M.W. What position were you playing?

I.B. I was a big fellow then, and there's only two places where they put the big guys at that level. I was striker or central defender.

Though I was up front for Ilchester, Palace played me in defence.

I did well enough to be offered a contract but, as you know, I didn't take it.

Watching Charlie Cooke

M.W. So Palace would be your favourite club?

I.B. No, funnily enough, it's

Chelsea, though my first allegiance these days is obviously to Scunthorpe.

I don't really know why Chelsea.

But, when I started getting interested in Soccer at school, Chelsea seemed to be on the box a lot and I was able to see players like Charlie Cooke, Peter Bonnett, George Graham, Eddie McCreadie, Peter Osgood and so on.

I felt for Jimmy Greaves

M.W. Who were your favourite players, your early idols?

I.B. That is not difficult. I shared them with half the population of Britain. I was ten when we won the World Cup.

I felt for Jimmy Greaves when he was left out of the side because we all wanted to score goals like he did.

It is a bit ironic that Chelsea are now managed by Geoff Hurst, who took Jimmy's place.

But Geoff's a great guy and I'm sure he'll do well for Chelsea.

No wage from Scunthorpe

M.W. What part does football play in your life now? Can you take it seriously?

I.B. Yes, very seriously. I owe that to Ron Ashman, the Scunthorpe manager, to John Kaye, the club coach who gives me some of his rare spare moments, and I owe it to the lads who play with me.

After all, for some of them it is their living.

I don't see it as a gimmick. I use football seriously, mainly as a way of keeping fit.

I need regular training when I'm not playing cricket and there's no better way of getting it than playing football.

I also happen to like playing the game.

● IAN BOTHAM — in action for Chelsea.

I don't get paid for playing for Scunthorpe. Nor do I want to be.

It is my way of saying a thank you to them for providing training facilities.

There is one thing that would give me just as much pleasure as beating the West Indies at cricket, and that is to be invited to Scunthorpe's promotion party at the end of next season.

They're a bit special you know. They're associated with two England captains . . . Kevin Keegan and me.

Who are the Matchmen?

MATCH Facts are back. Our super results service — the only one to provide star ratings for EVERY player in EVERY game — returns with the new season.

And with it comes our Matchmen of the Month scheme, which proved immensely popular with players and fans alike when it began last season.

The scheme is based on our star ratings. At the end of each month the AVERAGE of the marks awarded to players in Match Facts will determine the top players in each division.

Each of the five winners (from the four English divisions plus the Scottish Premier) receive a special attractive trophy, a cash prize of £100 and the title 'Matchman of the Month'.

ENGLAND's two captains write for Match this week. In a super exclusive Ian Botham says why he plumped for cricket instead of football.

And later in the issue we have England skipper Kevin Keegan naming his three greatest goals.

CURRAN CUTS A DISC

THE Hillsborough crowd are used to singing the praises of hero Terry Curran . . . now the roles have been reversed.

Sheffield Wednesdayite and local music producer Paul Wood hit the right note with Terry when he suggested he made a record.

Terry had no second thoughts and recorded the battle song of the Hillsborough crowd, 'Singing The Blues', a former hit for Dave Edmunds.

An initial 1,000 copies have been made. Terry is pictured, right, in the recording studio.

Members of Terry's own fan club can buy the disc at reduced rates.

Write to Terry Curran Fan Club, 36 Moorgate, Rotherham, South Yorks enclosing £1 membership fee if you want to join.

13 is my lucky number says DIXIE MCNEIL

Montgomery goes home

GOALKEEPER Jim Montgomery has re-joined Sunderland.

It was only three years ago that the veteran 'keeper, who held off Leeds United in the F.A. Cup Final, left Roker Park to join Birmingham City, then last season picked up a European Cup medal with Forest.

WREXHAM'S 33-year-old goal-snatcher Dixie McNeil loves the number 13.

"It's lucky for some, and I'm one of them," he says.

"Both my boys were born on the 13th of the month — Richard, who's six on January 13, and Jamie, who's two on November 13. And I signed for Lincoln on the 13th of the month.

"This is also my 13th season in the League and I've a feeling it could be a great one for me.

"My superstition used to be to come out last but one from the tunnel. Micky Vinter likes that spot now — and anyway I'm getting too old for that kind of thing!"

Mud in the eye for Ipswich

FRANZ Thijssen's mud-slinging incident at Liverpool last season brought back memories for many Ipswich Town fans.

Thijssen threw mud at the ball as Terry McDermott stepped up to take a penalty and, although the shot was saved, referee Bert Newsome didn't consider it had put him off.

A similar incident worked against Ipswich many seasons ago.

In an FA Cup-tie away to Aston Villa Ipswich left-winger Charlie Fletcher was about to take a penalty when Villa's left-back George Cummins threw mud which actually hit the ball.

Fletcher's spot-kick hit an upright but the referee waved away the Town protests.

It would have given Ipswich the lead. The game eventually ended 1-1 with Villa winning the replay 2-1.

AL-EKS STEP-KNEE!

BRITISH TV and radio soccer commentators have always prided themselves on being able to pronounce players names correctly — although Czechs and Greeks in the European championship provided a stern test.

For the Americans it has been a long-standing problem, so to help them the North American Soccer League has produced a player-by-player rundown for the media with the correct pronunciation alongside.

Example: Alex Stepney (Al-eks Step-knee), Jim McLoughlin (Jim Mick-lock-lin), Johan Cruyff (Yo-hawn Croyf) and Teofilo Cubillas (Tay-o-fee-loh Coo-bee-yus).

But my favourite is Fort Lauderdale Strikers defender Arsene Auguste . . . Ar-seen Ah-goost! No doubt that will make Brian Moore's fast greying hair stand on end!

Leicester's duster dilemma!

LEICESTER City had never known a panic like it . . . the day all the cleaning dusters vanished.

The first day of the new season dawned, BBC TV cameras were arriving and yet where were the dusters to make everywhere spick and span?

On the Friday before the big season kick-off the mystery was solved. The dusters turned up — inside the Second Division Championship trophy which had been on loan to the National Westminster Bank for an exhibition!

Wrong wavelength for Iain Munro

IAIN Munro's differences with St Mirren exploded into public view during a phone-in on local radio.

Manager Jim Clunie, on his way to watch Saints' Swedish UEFA Cup opponents, was so incensed by Munro's comments, that he rang the radio station from the airport and blasted out the interviewer and his reluctant full back over the air waves.

That was the week that was

In 1979 Andy Gray became British football's most expensive player when Wolves paid Aston Villa £1,469,000 for him, on Sept. 8, while in 1961 on Sept. 9 Brian Clough, playing for Sunderland against Leeds United, scored his 200th Football League goal in only his 219th match!

In 1967 Willie Carr, now a Wolves Scottish International, made his Football League debut — with Coventry City v. Arsenal on Sep. 9 and on Sept. 10 1966 Colin Todd, now a Birmingham City and ex-England defender, made his Football League debut — with Sunderland against Chelsea.

Back in 1895 (Sept. 11) the first-ever F.A. Cup was stolen from a Birmingham sports outfitter's shop window when Aston Villa were the holders. It was never recovered.

In 1970 on Sept. 12 Trevor Francis, British Soccer's first £1 million player, scored in a 1-1 draw when making his Football League debut as a Birmingham City 16-year-old v. Oxford United, while Peter Shilton was transferred from Stoke City to Forest for £270,000 on September 13, 1975.

Finally George Best made his Football League debut — with Manchester United against West Bromwich Albion on September 14, 1963.

SHOULDER toes the line

ALAN Shoulder (above) wasn't going to let a broken toe keep him out of Newcastle's photo-call at the beginning of the season — even if it meant him hobbling around on supports.

Alan broke the toe in his right-foot on a pre-season tour of Sweden, but he was back for Newcastle's first home game — the 1-1 home draw with Notts County.

MATCH WEEKLY

DAVID FAIRCLOUGH
 Liverpool

David Fairclough — in fierce action against Wolves' Paul Bradshaw.

Dropped — after his first 3-goal blast

DAVID Fairclough wasn't allowed to enjoy his first Liverpool league hat-trick for very long... he was dropped the next week!

Surprisingly David accepted it without a murmur of complaint.

"David Johnson had been playing so well until his injury for England against Eire that I half expected to sit the next game out."

As it happens, Fairclough lived up to his "super-sub" tag in that game — the second leg of the League Cup semi-final with Nottingham Forest — by coming on and scoring.

"But despite getting dropped for the following game I'll never forget scoring that hat-trick" David said.

"Everybody who plays professional football dreams of scoring a hat-trick and it was especially nice because I only came into the side for the away game against Norwich at the last minute and it was such an entertaining game.

"The first goal was the result of a one-two with Sammy Lee.

"His return pass put me clear on the right side of the goal and as Keelan came out I slipped it past him with my left foot into the corner.

"The second was only five minutes later.

"Alan Hansen broke out of defence, ran in a straight line to their goal and slipped it to me square on the edge of the box.

"I rifled a right foot shot in from about 18 yards.

"The third was a simple tap-in from the centre of goal a few yards out after Kenny Dalglish had drawn the 'keeper and passed it across.

"It was the easiest of the lot but it gave me more pleasure than any other goal I've scored for Liverpool because it was the accomplishment of the hat-trick. The game finished 5-3 to us."

Although Fairclough once again started the season on the sidelines he's content with Anfield life at present.

"I was pleased to be involved for the early games but I'm 23 now and obviously striving for first-team football.

"I may suddenly wake up one morning and tell Bob Paisley that I want a move."

30 in the 3-up Club!

SINCE the last war 30 players have achieved the incredible feat of scoring three or more hat-tricks in one season in the First Division.

Boyer on target

SOUTHAMPTON'S Phil Boyer who missed the start of this season through injury became the last player to join the First Division hat-trick greats when he scored three last term.

The Great Jimmy Greaves

THE post war hat-trick record of the great Jimmy Greaves will probably never be equalled in the First Division. Jimmy twice scored three hat-tricks in one season (for Chelsea in 1959-60 and Spurs in 1968-69), twice scored four hat-tricks in one season (both for Spurs in seasons 1962-63 and 1963-64) and once scored an unbelievable six hat-tricks in one season (for Chelsea in 1960-61).

A dream start for Sexton

LITTLE Lou Macari was responsible for giving Dave Sexton a dream start as the new boss at Manchester United.

It was Dave's first League game in charge and up popped Lou with a hat-trick in a 4-1 United victory against Birmingham at St Andrew's.

Lou cast his mind back to that glorious day on August 20, 1977, to re-live the goals for Match:

"It was the first game of the season.

"I remember the first came from a loose ball in the Birmingham box.

"I just smacked in a right foot shot through a crowded goalmouth.

"The second was a glancing header inside the six yard box — I don't head them from any further out!

"The third one only resulted from the fact that I knew the game was won.

"We were 3-0 up with just a few minutes to go and I was pushing up looking for my hat-trick.

"It came during a goalmouth scramble and I think I toe-poked the ball home in the end," said Lou.

United's fourth goal that day came from Gordon Hill.

"To score a hat-trick is tremendous and something that usually falls to a striker," added Lou.

"I was playing in midfield in that game and I would imagine very few midfielders manage three goals in a game.

"The front three expect to score but for a midfielder to score has to be a bonus for any team."

Although that hat-trick against Brum is Lou's one and only for United he did score two hat-tricks in his days with Celtic.

He says however: "Generally goals are a little bit easier to come by in the Scottish League."

Lou Macari — just like that! Little Lou appears to be demonstrating just how easy it all is.

LOU MACARI
Manchester United

HAT TRICK HEROES!

We talk to three of the men who have achieved that golden target of three goals in a game.

No time to think about it

It may not be until the end of the season that Norwich striker Justin Fashanu realises the size of his achievement on the opening day.

"It still hasn't sunk in that I scored a hat-trick," Justin told Match a few days after his storming start against Stoke.

"At this stage there's so many games to play that you don't have time to look back.

"Maybe, at the end of the season, it will hit me.

"Hat-tricks are not something that I've really thought about before.

"I've scored two goals in first-team games before but never worried about missing out on the third — I just thought I was never going to get a hat-trick.

"The first against Stoke came from just outside the box.

"The ball broke to me, I beat a defender and shot into the corner of the net.

"The second was the most satisfying of the lot — I rate it on a par with the one against Liverpool earlier this year that won BBC TV's Goal Of The Season.

"Joe Royle fed me the ball and I ran from the half-way line, clear of the defence, rounded the 'keeper and shot into the far corner.

"It was more difficult than it looked — I had to keep calm as I dribbled towards the goal.

"The third was a header at the far post after a great cross from John McDowell.

"It made the score 5-1 and at that moment I was more conscious of the great scoreline than my hat-trick."

Justin Fashanu — achievement has not yet sunk in.

What's in a name?

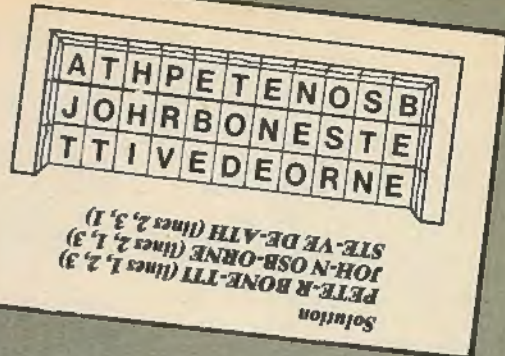

What football feat have Southampton's Phil Boyer and Forest's John Robertson (below) in common.

Kevin Dillon (Birmingham City) v
Coventry City, Football League
Division One, August 16, 1980.

Birmingham got off to a cracking start on their return to the First Division as they turned on the heat to melt the challenge of chocolate-shirted Coventry on the opening day.

Alan Curbishley struck the Blues in front after 20 minutes from Frank Worthington's first time cross, and Worthington supplied the chance for Sunderland-born Kevin Dillon to smash a superb second goal — seven minutes later.

Twenty-year-old Kevin recalled: "Alan Ainstow found Keith Bertschin on the right, and he turned and chipped in a great cross to Frank by the far post. I thought he would knock his header into my path, but he put it straight at me and I just managed to nod it past Dyson.

"I was amazed when the goalkeeper Jim Blyth stepped back instead of coming out as the ball dropped. He was at fault for not closing me down but I was pleased that he gave me enough room to volley it past him with my left foot."

Curbishley completed the 3-0 rout in the second half, again from Worthington's pass, and to add to Coventry's misery Ray Gooding was sent off for giving Archie Gemmill a back-hander!

'I aimed for the middle of the Kop'

THE GOAL that gave me the most pleasure was one I scored for Liverpool in an FA Cup semi-final replay in 1974. It was against Leicester City at Villa Park.

The first game had ended 0-0 at Old Trafford after we had done everything but score.

We'd hit the post and the bar and missed chances — and we had already got the feeling that this was one game we were never going to win.

That's why I was so pleased with my goal — it set us on the road to Wembley. I was also pleased because from the moment I got the ball, in the middle of their half, everything worked exactly as I wanted it to.

I carried the ball on a few yards and then it bounced up in front of me. Just at that moment I noticed that Peter Shilton was doing just what a good 'keeper should, advancing from his line a few steps.

So I thought 'here we go — I do it in training, I can do it here'. And I hit a dipping volley which flashed over Peter's head and into the middle of the net.

When I hit the ball I remember aiming for the middle of the Kop, knowing full well that if I 'whipped' it with my right foot it would dip over Peter.

I was a good 25 yards out and I just can't explain how delighted I was to see that ball go in. It broke the ice for us and though they equalised through Len Glover we made it safe with goals from Brian Hall and John Toshack.

Peter Shilton — did everything a good 'keeper should but was still helpless.

BEST GOALS

MATCH SWAP SHOP

DON'T think I'll ever score a better goal than the one I got against Eire on February 6 this year.

The 75th minute of that Wednesday night at Wembley will always live in my memory. I rate it the best goal I have ever scored.

And yet when the ball first came to me, just inside their half I had no idea what I was going to do with it.

The ball was bouncing and I won a header and was forced to take on Brady to keep possession.

I rode another tackle that came in quickly and then moved forward between O'Leary and

The best of the lot

Grealish. As Chris Hughton came towards me I found myself on my left foot.

I don't mind shooting with my left. In fact my two previous goals for England had come from that foot. But most players have a favourite foot and mine's on the other side!

Anyway, I went for the chip and it worked like a dream. It's not often I surprise myself with something I do on the pitch but I have to admit that I did that night.

The great thing about the goal for me was that in that fleeting instant I had actually considered that Eire had just changed keepers (Payton had been injured in a clash with David Johnson) and I thought I might catch Healey out.

Thinking under pressure is the hardest thing in the game but when something comes off like this it's tremendously rewarding.

I was also pleased because there was a lot of skill in the goal. Most of the goals I score come from inside the six yard box, with me getting on the end of balls played into the area.

My Cup Final cracker

THE MOST important goal of my career came in the FA Cup Final at Wembley for Liverpool against Newcastle.

We had dominated the first half like no-one had done for years. And yet at half time we had nothing to show for it.

I remember sitting in the changing rooms and hoping that it wasn't going to be one of those days when Supermac suddenly popped up to crash in a 30-yarder.

But 15 minutes into the second half my fears disappeared.

Tommy Smith knocked a ball up to Brian Hall, who was standing a few yards in front of me in the arc on the penalty box.

Everyone thought Brian would hold the ball or knock it down for someone. But instead he ducked under it and it came straight to me.

I was being marked by Terry McDermott (who was later transferred to Anfield) and didn't have a lot of time. So I took the ball once on my thigh and then turned to volley into the top corner.

hand to the ball but I got so much power on the shot he couldn't stop it.

It's all a bit of a blur after that though I remember Brian Hall leaping into my arms and then we disappeared under a sea of red shirts. It was an unbelievable feeling.

Steve Heighway got a second goal for us and I made it 3-0 to take the Cup to Anfield.

That first goal earned me the Golden Boot award, a trophy which used to be presented by a Midlands firm who specialised in gold sprays.

I gave the trophy to my brother Mike, who had to miss the final when he fell from a tree and hurt his back.

MANCHESTER UNITED AND ENGLAND
answers your questions

Tackle a Star

Goal I can't forget

RICHARD DUKE, Chiswick, London: Which Manchester United game and goal sticks out in your memory?

STEVE: It would have to be our FA Cup Final victory over Liverpool at Wembley in 1977 when we beat them 2-1.

And the goal would be our second in that game — the one that won it for us. Liverpool had just equalised and we thought that was it — you can't ask for two chances against them.

Then we got that second via Jimmy Greenhoff — maybe the Gods were smiling on us that day.

IF YOU want to put a question to your favourite player send it to Tackle a Star, Match Weekly, Midgate, Peterborough.

My hero

MICHAEL KILLILEA, Fallowfield, Manchester: Are you a Catholic? What is your favourite daily newspaper? What Primary and Secondary schools did you go to? And who was your childhood hero?

STEVE: Firstly I'm C of E Michael.

I don't stick to any one daily paper, but I enjoy the Daily Telegraph as much as any.

I went to Ranworth Square County Primary at Norris Green, Liverpool and then Quarry Bank Comprehensive again in Liverpool.

Joe Royle of Norwich went to the same two schools!

If I had to choose a hero from my school days it would have to be either Peter Thompson or Ian St John from the first great Liverpool side.

My happiest moments

ANNE WEI (16), Cambridge: What was the happiest moment of your life and who do you predict will become England's goalkeeper in the future?

STEVE: One of the best feelings I ever had, Anne, was when I got my 'O' level results at school.

I managed six out of eight — better than I ever expected — and I was walking on air.

In football it would have to be my debut for United.

I came on as a second half substitute against Cardiff in February 1975.

We scored virtually as I ran on and I think I crossed two balls and we scored from both.

We won 4-0.

In answer to your second question our own Gary Bailey must have a great chance, but another young keeper who has impressed me is Paul Barron, now of Crystal Palace.

Rock music is my favourite

CATHERINE SKILLING, Mossblown, Ayrshire: Who is your most difficult opponent?

Who is your room-mate on tours with United? Have you any plans to get married? What kind of music do you like?

What is your favourite colour? Who is your best friend at United and what style of clothes do you like to wear?

STEVE: That's set me quite a task Catherine!

I wouldn't like to say who I think my most difficult opponent is — it might give him a psychological edge!

Room-mate? Usually it's Ray Wilkins, but while he was injured I roomed with Arthur Albiston.

No, I have no plans for marriage.

My tastes in music vary from heavy rock to mushy guitar stuff but I particularly like Thin Lizzy and America.

I like bright colours — particularly red and yellow.

I suppose I'm closest to Ray Wilkins because I room with him and lastly I prefer to dress casually — 'T' shirts and jeans if I can.

Why I love watching Kenny Dalglish

ALTHOUGH I love football I make no secret of my dislike of watching when Tottenham or England are involved.

If I'm injured I'll always see the Tottenham games — and make sure I've got about eight packets of chewing gum with me — but I don't pretend to enjoy it.

It's OK when Spurs are attacking but when the ball is down the other end I feel terrible!

I've been on the bench a few times for England now and it's important you concentrate all the time in case you're called on.

I was one of the subs for the England v Italy game in the European Championship and to be involved in a contest of that importance was really great.

If I had to choose a team to watch it would be Liverpool at their attacking best, or West Ham.

I've always admired Hammers' style of play and would rate them my favourite other side.

If I had to choose a player to watch I would stay at Anfield — and concentrate on the Reds' Kenny Dalglish.

I love watching the little things that he does, the little flicks, dummies and lay-offs.

He's got tremendous skill but what's very important as well is that he thinks about the game all the time.

When he's waiting for a pass he's thinking all the time about where his defender is and how he can turn away from him.

People are always quick to say how boring our football is but I think it's a case of the grass being a little greener on the other side of the fence.

If the critics had to go and watch league games in West

Kenny Dalglish — a player I greatly admire.

Germany and Holland I'm certain they'd say how good our league was.

But what is entertainment?

A side can win games 1-0 and not be entertaining, but the crowds will still keep turning up because they're watching a successful side.

Take Spurs last season. We didn't have a particularly great time but we still pulled in 40,000 crowds.

Glenn Hoddle

Above: My first goal of the season — the penalty past Peter Shilton in our opening game.

A star in my schoolmates eyes

YOU meet so many different and famous people in football it's easy to drift away from your boyhood friends.

But I'm lucky in that I still go around with five lads who were in my class at school.

Often we'll all meet at the pub for a drink.

It's funny because I can't impress them any more with stories of the big games or what we got up to in Italy with the England senior squad.

They probably go to a game now and say to the man they're standing next to 'that's my mate Glenn over there' and think nothing more of it.

But in the early days, when I first went training with Spurs, I was much more of a star in their eyes.

They used to ask me different things about the players. Does Martin Chivers do this and that and Stevie Perryman — what's he like?

Now they just mention if Spurs did good or bad and leave it at that.

Players complained when I got in their way

I'D BEEN a midfield player all through my school days yet it was in the unlikely position of right wing that I first turned out for Tottenham!

I was only 11 and very small compared to the other lads and they must have assumed my best position was out wide.

Of course you're very quiet at that age, you don't know many people and I just had to grin and bear it for a while.

Eventually the other players complained because I used to come inside with the ball and get in their way.

They told me I was trying to get involved too much and it was then that I said 'well actually I'm really a midfield player'. And from then on that's where I stayed.

Match of the Day Southampton v Brighton

SOUTHAMPTON'S best shot at the League title was to finish in seventh spot... and it was ten years ago when they reached those 'heady' heights.

But times are changing down at the once unfashionable — and unfancied — south coast club.

I believe this season will see them emerge as serious Championship challengers for the first time in their history.

And I have no doubts that today will bring them two points nearer that goal at the expense of their seaside rivals Brighton. The latter haven't won a League game at the Dell for 25 years!

I can't see Brighton improving much if any on last season's 16th position but they have more than a few players capable of proving me wrong... and a new centre forward with re-kindled fire in his heart — former Manchester City striker Mike Robinson.

Mike told me recently: 'Naturally I'm impressed by the set up at Brighton.'

'Every one of the Brighton lads has impressed me.'

'I've played with Gary Williams and Mark Lawrenson before — in the Central League at Preston — and I'm really looking forward to a season alongside Peter Ward.'

'What's important to me is that Mr Mullery has asked me to play in the role I am best at — something which didn't happen at Manchester City.'

But Mike, who came out as Brighton's star player in our Match Facts ratings for his performance in the Seagulls' first match of the season, is destined to be outshone today.

Southampton score goals at home as though they are going out of fashion and with Mike Channon, Charlie George and Phil Boyer firing on all cylinders they have a forward line to fear.

If all that fails they have, of course, a lad called Kevin Keegan...

SPURS to beat Manchester United today even though they've only managed one win in the Reds' last six visits in the League.

CHELSEA's management partnership of Geoff Hurst and Bobby Gould find themselves up against their old club, West Ham, at Stamford Bridge and they should end the day well satisfied.

Last time West Ham beat Chelsea at the Bridge in a League match was in season 1973-74.

A repeat of the score in 1966-67 would be entertaining... the match finished 5-5!

THERE's a return to his old club for Sunderland full back Steve Whitworth at Leicester today but I don't think he'll enjoy the result — 1-0 to the home side

STEVE WHITWORTH — goes back to his old club.

Springing with legs and arms to get extra lift

Cyrille Regis of West Bromwich Albion joins Match Soccer School

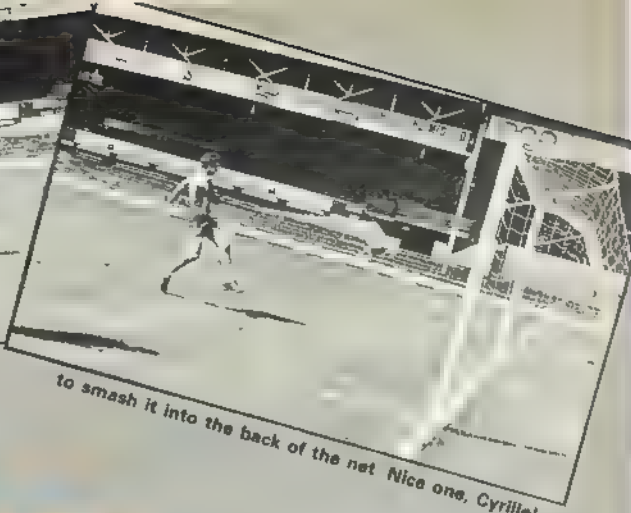

Turn the head slightly and time the glance...

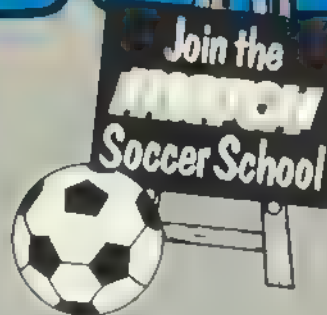

So it deflects to the feet of my team-mate Ally Brown to smash it into the back of the net Nice one, Cyrille!

'USE YOUR HEAD'

AS A schoolboy living almost within a corner kick of Wembley Stadium, Cyrille Regis spent hours developing his skills with a football against the nearest brick wall.

Now the West Brom striker is on the verge of pulling on an England shirt in the shadow of those twin towers and is delighted to pass on some tips to MATCH WEEKLY readers on how to improve your skills and perhaps follow him one day into the First Division.

Says Cyrille: "I've learned a great deal at the Hawthorns and I'm still learning, the manager tells me!

"But I practice hard on my game and so must everyone who wants to reach the top."

A striker's job is not only scoring goals but making them for others and, says Cyrille, if you use your head you can do both.

Glancing headers

JUST as with back flicks, make sure you get ahead of the defender to get in your glancing header.

I'm lucky in that I have strong thighs to help me spring and get above the opposition. And I haven't had to use weights to build them up.

Again, with the glancing header keep your eyes open at all times and make a slight turning movement with your head to deflect the ball into the path of your colleague.

As I said, a striker's role is not always about scoring, it's about creating. So remember, you must work hard in an unselfish way, too

Flick-ons

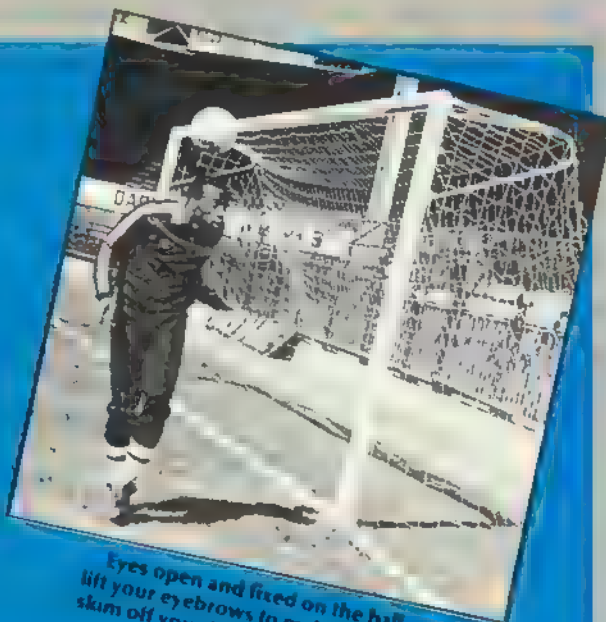

CREATING chances for colleagues is just as important a skill as scoring and two ways of doing this with your head is with a flick or a glance into the danger area.

But you must get to the ball first at the near post and get in front of the defender at the same time, dragging him out of position and creating space for you.

The flick-on is most successful if the ball is driven to the near post.

Be careful to keep your eyes open and not to make an exaggerated head movement.

The best overhead flicks are really just a raising of the eyebrows and timing your jump to let the ball skim off your forehead and loop over the defender or goalkeeper at your back, to other forwards anticipating the move.

Eyes open and fixed on the ball, lift your eyebrows to make the ball skim off your forehead.

Sunderland not good enough!

I'M absolutely sickened by the way Ken Knighton and his assistants blabber on about how good Sunderland are and what they're going to achieve this season.

I wish they would get it into their heads that Sunderland are just not good enough for the First Division.

OK I'm a Newcastle fan and you might say I'm jealous because my team didn't get promotion, but on both occasions Newcastle played Sunderland last season they were the superior team.

I'm longing to hear Ken Knighton's comments when relegation hits him in the face. T. Hayton, Gateshead, Tyne & Wear.

I THOUGHT you might like to see this paragraph that I cut out of a recent Daily Star.

Be fair to Fairclough

HOW much longer will Bob Paisley ignore the obvious skills of David Fairclough?

Time and time again he's proved that he can score goals in the most important situations.

When he gets a chance in the first-team he justifies his selection by usually scoring at least one goal in every match but the next week he's dropped again.

If Paisley delays giving Fairclough the extended chance he fully deserves this great player is likely to go somewhere where he will be appreciated.

TERRACE TALK

Larry May has got it wrong

I WAS annoyed by Larry May's comment in Match (August 9) that West Ham played pretty-pretty football and there was often a lack of fight about their game.

I'd like to remind Mr May that West Ham beat Leicester 2-1 at Filbert Street last season and were one down at Upton Park only to score three times in a late ten-minute spell.

If that's not fight I don't know what is! Andrew Brooker (13), Sittingbourne, Kent.

Banks the best of them all

I WAS interested in the results of your readers' poll on who is the best goalkeeper, Peter Shilton or Ray Clemence.

As with Ron Greenwood it appears that Match Weekly readers can't choose between the two, so I decided the best way to settle the argument was to consider the opinions of the men who know — Shilton and Clemence's fellow professionals.

Using Match Weekly's Matchmakers I totalled up the number of times Shilton and Clemence appeared in the 'best all-time British team.'

In 39 responses Shilton was selected nine times as opposed to just four for Ray Clemence.

Ex-England hero Gordon Banks was by far the most popular player — he was chosen by 24 of the players interviewed while Pat Jennings accounted for the two remaining votes.

When one considers that Shilton has also been voted PFA 'Division One Goalkeeper of the Year' four times to Clemence's one it seems that the professionals are in no doubt who they'd rather have in goal.

Nick Webb, Braintree, Essex.

Allen move farcical

FARCICAL... that's the only word to describe Clive Allen's ridiculous and incredible transfer to Crystal Palace.

It left him £50,000 better off without even kicking a ball in the First Division.

The only way Arsenal boss Terry Neill has benefited from the sensational three-man swap deal is by signing a class full-back, Kenny Sansom.

Philip Preece (13), Salford, Lancs.

Footnote: Maybe that's all he wanted, Philip

Clive Allen was never given a chance to show Arsenal his ball skills. Philip Preece says his transfer to Crystal Palace was farcical

Baffled by the big switch

AFTER watching Match Of The Day and the Big Match for seasons on end, I'd got used to the arrangement, but now the two programmes are going to swap places it won't seem the same.

I can't get used to the Big Match on Saturday evenings and the Match Of The Day theme tune on Sunday afternoons.

Roll on next season when the two programmes will be back to their original days and times.

R Dawson, London SE14.

Always on the moan

BRIAN Clough and Peter Taylor should live in an old folk's home — they're just like two old women, always moaning about something or other.

I don't mind them moaning when Forest lose but even when they win they find something else to moan about.

Steven Turton (15), Sheffield.

So glad Brady didn't join United

I'M glad that Liam Brady is not moving to Manchester United.

He's a very skilful player but I don't think he would have settled at Old Trafford. If United were looking for a regular goalscorer they should have looked elsewhere for Arsenal have never won by scoring a lot of goals.

Last season United were second in the league and that was without Jimmy Greenhoff.

Now he's back I'm tipping United to win the First Division championship.

Tracy Whiteley (13), South Kirkby, W. Yorks.

OUTRAGED!

FOUL OF THE WEEK

Ray Clemence is so unfair

I'M outraged at the amount of times Liverpool use foul play to win matches.

The foul play stems mostly from goalkeeper Ray Clemence

When taking on an attacker on a one-to-one basis he will either bring off a great save, or, if the forward gets through, rugby tackle him to prevent him scoring.

If Liverpool are going to continue to win the League Championship they should at least win it fairly.

Mark Faulkner, Horstforth, Leeds.

● Come off it Mark, name me one goalkeeper who wouldn't do the same. And don't accuse me of Liverpool bias — I'm not a Pool supporter either.

Scots always making excuses

I'M outraged with you, Trevor Haylett, for allowing all these Scots a place in your column.

All they do is criticise English football and make excuses about why Scottish football is not as good as ours.

So please let's settle for sensible outraged people.

Edward Pearce, Chandlers Ford, Hants.

● OK Edward I'll heed your advice — but be prepared for a torrent of abuse from those north of the border!

Give Adamson a fair chance

Why can't all the so-called Leeds supporters shut their mouths.

I'm outraged at hearing continued criticism of manager Jimmy Adamson.

For instance they even criticised him for signing Tony Arns and Marshall Burke from Burnley.

Why not — they didn't cost him a penny.

The fans also drove away Ray Hankin from Elland Road — forgetting the times Hankin proved a match-winner for United.

Do you expect Adamson to produce as good a team as Liverpool overnight? Why not start encouraging him for once?

J. Barrow, Woodhouse Lane, Leeds

● I wouldn't have cost a penny either — in fact I'd pay Leeds to play for them! But seriously, you make a sensible point — Jimmy Adamson should be allowed to get on and manage.

THE GOALMAKERS

WHO ARE football's goalmakers? MATCH WEEKLY has been finding out from the men who know — the strikers for whom chances are set up by these midfield maestros. Today Ipswich striker Paul Mariner talks about his midfield colleague, Dutchman Arnold Muhren.

BIRTHPLACE: Volendam, Holland.

BIRTHDATE: June 2, 1951.

CAREER: Volendam, Ajax, Twente Enschede (all Holland), Ipswich.

FOOTBALL LEAGUE DEBUT: v Liverpool at home, August 22, 1978. Lost 0-3.

LEAGUE APPEARANCES: 96.

INTERNATIONAL HONOURS: Two full caps for Holland.

So difficult to replace — says Paul Mariner

'ARNOLD'S got terrific vision and can put the ball on a tanner for you. From a striker's point of view, he's the ideal man to play with.'

There's nothing more frustrating than making runs knowing you won't get the ball, but Arnold is always aware of people making runs and is so accurate with that long cross he hits from the left side to the far post.

There are not many players of quality around and the lads were absolutely delighted when he decided not to leave Ipswich. He would have been terribly difficult to replace.'

Left: Paul Mariner, and far left, running on to a Muhren through-ball against Everton.

Desperate to play — that's Strachan

ABERDEEN's pocket dynamo Gordon Strachan may have been the big success for Scotland in the British championships and the four games against Poland and Hungary — but he's taking nothing for granted.

"Of course, I'm desperate to play in the opening qualifying match of the World Cup against Sweden in Stockholm on September 10 but there will be a lot of keen competition for the midfield places," Gordon told MATCH WEEKLY.

"When you look at players like Graeme Souness, Archie

Gemmill, Roy Aitken and Alex McLeish all in the hunt for places then it would be foolish to count on anything.

"I enjoyed the five matches last season, although I was a very tired player by the time we got back from the continent.

Wait and see

"I've no idea how the boys down south are doing and although I'm reasonably happy with my own form the boss obviously has a better overall picture so I'll wait and see what he comes up with."

The match against Sweden is the start of manager Jock Stein's four year plan to get Scotland into their third successive World Cup finals and naturally he will be looking for a smooth launch against the Swedes.

Right now, Stein is playing it with a low profile but there seems little doubt he will go solidly for experience — which means a back four of Danny McGrain, Alan Hansen, Kenny Burns and Frank Gray.

Despite his modesty, Strachan is also a cert for midfield along with Graeme Souness and skipper Archie Gemmill.

The injury to Manchester United striker Joe Jordan poses some problem for Stein who will now have to look for someone else to play alongside Kenny Dalglish.

Best bet is Spurs star Steve Archibald, although Andy Gray also comes into contention.

Nottingham Forest winger John Robertson will complete a formidable looking side.

Gordon Strachan — desperate to play against Sweden next week.

It's Fun Time

Darren Peck, Attleborough, Norfolk . . .

Bob Paisley's doorbell went wrong the other day. He phoned the electrician but he never came. Bob phoned him again and asked him when he was coming. "I've been," the electrician replied. "I rang the doorbell twice but nobody answered!"

E. Collins, Top Valley Estate, Nottingham . . .

Who has the biggest dressing rooms in the Football League?
Answer: Crewe — everybody changes at Crewe.

"Everything's a mixed blessing Joe. Since you broke your leg in the cup-tie we haven't lost a game!"

Barry Moore (14), Glinton, Peterborough . . .

England were playing Scotland at Wembley. The Scottish fans went down by train. Just over the border the train began to bump up and down before carrying on. Puzzled by this one of the fans went up to see the driver. "Why was the train bumping up and down back there," he asked. "Oh, we ran over an Englishman." "But why all the bumping?" "We had to go through a field to get him."

"When their fans were singing 21 today, I thought it was somebody's birthday."

"Got chicken pox?
... that's the first thing
you've ever caught."

Richard Beighton, Cobham, Surrey . . .

Have you heard about this new film called 'Only two can play'? It stars the Chelsea football team.

Fans expect too much

We've got so many Scottish players at Nottingham Forest at the moment that I'm thinking about making an interpreter my next signing.

It's just as well at times that I've got Jimmy Gordon around to do a bit of translating.

People ask me if I've got any particular leaning towards Scottish players but the fact that we've not got a handful of them in our first team is pure coincidence.

John Robertson was here when I arrived, John O'Hare and John McGovern have been with me almost as long as my wife, Kenny Burns was an excellent buy from Birmingham and when we needed a full-back to replace Frank Clark there were not many better candidates than Frank Gray.

Now that Ian Wallace has joined us from Coventry, it might be right to label us as Cloughie's tartan clan but in Ian's case too, it was simply down to availability.

It all adds up to the fact that Jock Stein, who I have seen quite a lot of in recent years, will probably be spending more time in Nottingham than me over the coming months.

Internationals

I've always had a good relationship with Jock and obviously, we've talked a lot about players being freed for international duty. Having been a club manager himself, he has always understood my problems.

There has never been any problem when it comes to co-operation and even though we have so many candidates for his side, I would like to think we could carry on that way.

Frank Gray, one of Forest's many Scots, scored a great goal against Peterborough in last week's League Cup tie.

BRIAN CLOUGH

has the final word

If I can help him in his efforts to get together a successful Scotland side then I'll do everything in my power — just as I do with Ron Greenwood or any other international manager.

It would be good for our football if England, Scotland, Wales, N. Ireland and Eire qualified for the World Cup Finals.

The Scots in the past have been something of an enigma. They qualified for the World Cup Finals while England stayed at home but have never fulfilled their promise.

I think one of the problems is that their supporters expect too much of the international side. They are fanatics and the frenzy of it all seems to spread to the players on the field.

Obviously, there are some very talented Scottish players around and I would like to think that some of my squad can figure in Jock's plans.

As always, there is an open invitation for him to visit us. I like talking to the man — and I think we speak the same language.

World Cup

There's one thing certain, there are already big signs now that some of the top countries are gathering their forces for the 1982 World Cup.

We saw evidence of Germany's preparations in Italy and I'm certain the likes of Argentina are getting ready. It's going to be their type of tournament in Spain with the kind of weather and environment they are used to back home.

But one way or another I hope that in a couple of years time I'll be providing nine or ten players for the home countries.
